

First Assembly of God

To be a church, intent on bringing glory to God, by exemplifying an unwavering commitment to the Great Commandment and the Great Commission.

December 2013 Newsletter

A note from Pastor Brent.....

Partially through my sermon series entitled, "The Christmas Experience," I marvel at Mary as she said: "I am your servant. May it be to me as you have said." I'm challenged to say and do the same. And while it doesn't record those same words from Joseph, he lived out the phrase, "nevertheless, not my will, but yours be done." Surely God used Joseph's earthly "fatherly" influence to shape the human Son of God. Later in life, Jesus said to His Heavenly Father, "nevertheless, not my will, but yours be done." This "submitted to God" life caused the people involved in the first Christmas to be an example for Christians throughout the centuries. No matter what they faced in life, these servants kept serving the Lord. And you can be sure, they were not perfect, but in the end, their lives were willingly submitted to God's control. Oh what God can birth when there are people who are fully yielded to Him. Tammy and I want to let you know how very grateful we are for you, our church family. It's our desire to fulfill what I'm preaching—living our lives, submitted to God—no matter what! We have never felt more prayers, more love and more support than this past year. May God grant you and yours a joy-filled Christmas—and may the blessing of the Lord be upon you in this New Year. With all our love, Brent, Tammy, and family!
